Since our last death has entered the home of Mr. Jno. B. Wilkes and claimed for its victim Mrs. Sarah Wilkes, one of our neighbors and one who had many friends who will miss her as the years go by and we see her no more on earth. She had been ill several months and death came as a sweet relief to her tired spirit. And as we followed her remains to its last resting place we could say truly a good woman has ceased to go in and out before us. The funeral services were conducted by Revs. Gray and Walker and the large crowd in attendance showed the high esteem in which she was held by her community. Deceased had been a member of the Knob Creek Baptist Church for fifty years. And during her illness when Bro. Walker approached her on the subject of her religious career she said that she had found God's grace sufficient for her amid every trial and conflict of life. Ah! who could give a sweeter experience? To the mourning friends we would say try to emulate her example and know that with God's help all things are possible and though you are bowed with grief at her long absence look up through your tears and see that Christian living here prepares us for a life of sunshine over there. Who does not want such a reward? To the children who watched with so much patience at her bedside we bid you remember the language of the text on that occasion. "The Lord knoweth them that are his." God makes no mistakes and though he has called a loved one from our midst we bow submissively and know that she has only gone before where the ransomed of earth having passed through the Heavenly gate shall enjoy the "Wonderful Peace" of God's love forevermore.

PRESIDENT JERE BAXTER RESIGNS

From Tennessee Central Controll.
Best Interests of the Road and the People of Tennessee Demand It.

Col. Jere Baxter, promoter and builder of the Tennessee Central Railroad, on Saturday announced his resignation from the presidency of the line, to take effect May 1. In doing this he announced as his successor, J. C. Van Blarcom, one of the strongest and best known financiers of St. Louis.

While the announcement of Col. Baxter's resignation came in the nature of a surprise to many persons in Nashville, such has been strongly rumored for more than a week past.

There is little probability that Col. Baxter's resignation will cause any material change in the personnel of the road, so far as the other officers are concerned.

Col. Baxter announced his resignation through a card in the Nashville papers, giving a history of the building of the Tennessee Central:

He says in part:

"For more than a decade I have been struggling arduously and constantly against difficulties and obstacles which can never be fully known to any but myself, to build a railroad through the coal measures of the Cumberland Plateau to the capital of the state, and to relieve the people of the state from the blighting effects of a railroad monopoly permeating its entire length and breadth and entrenched especially in its central, most populous and richest division, by the construction of an independent line of transportation giving access to the great markets of the country and inviting the investment of capital in the development of the state's marvelous and unsurpassed resources."

Toward the last of his card he tells of his fight before the legislature for equitable traffic arrangements for his road, and of his defeat by the all powerful railroad lobby. After fully grasping the situation, he states further:

"I took the train for St. Louis before the Legislature finally adjourned. I stated the situation fully and frankly to my associates as I saw it, urged upon them that not only the interests of the company and of themselves, but also the interests of the people of Tennessee, required that I should give place to someone who was not obnoxious to the two old roads of Middle Tennessee, and requested them to consent to my resignation as President and director of the Tennessee Central Railroad and all constituent and allied companies."

Cures When Doctors Fail.

Mrs. Frank Chinnison, Patterson, La., writes June 28, 1901: "I had malaria fever in very bad form, was under treatment by doctors, but as soon as I stopped taking their medicine the fever would return. I used a sample bottle of Herbine, found it helped me. Then bought two bottles, which completely cured me. I feel grateful to you for furnishing such a splendid medicine, and can honestly recommend it to those suffering from malaria, as it will surely cure them." Herbine, 50c a bottle at A. B. Rains.

COLUMBIA PRESBYTERY.

The Columbia Presbytery of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church held its spring session with the Santa Fe congregation April 23-25.

Nearly all of the ministers were present and the greater part of the congregations were represented. The opening sermon was preached by the retiring Moderator, Rev. E. L. McWilliams, of McCains, Tenn. Rev. V. D. Braly, of Elkton, was elected Moderator for the new session. The following delegates were elected to the General Assembly, which convenes in Nashville next month: Ministers, S. H. Eshman and R. D. Whitaker; Elders, J. A. Gilbreath and B. F. King. The next meeting of the presbytery will be held with the College Grove congregation in Williamson county, in September.

The pastoral relation existing between Rev. M. E. Gabard and the Franklin congregation was dissolved and he was permitted to receive a call from Santa Fe and Loring Hope, and an order was passed for his installation at both places.

The Presbytery by memorial asked the coming General Assembly to take no action on the question of union of the Cumberland Presbyterian church and the Presbyterian church in the United States of America (Northern), at least until the negotiations for said union were inaugurated by that church.

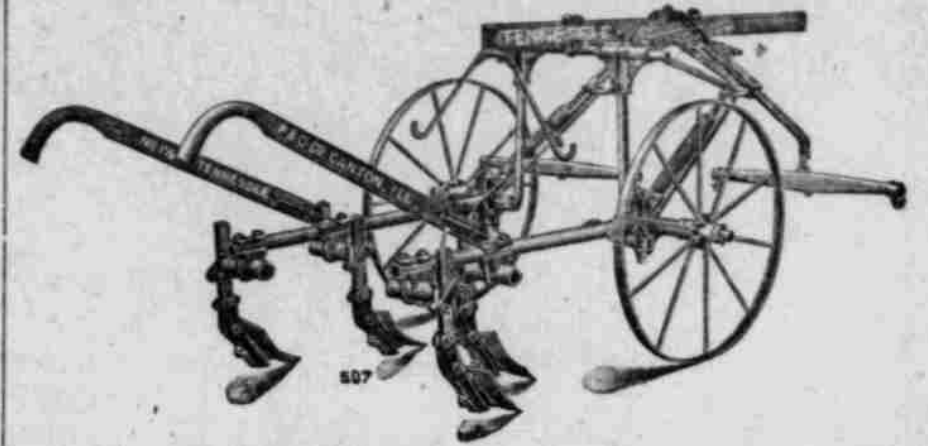

Many county churches were represented by Elders C. H. Denton, W. T. Owen, J. A. Thomas, J. A. Gilbreath, M. L. Nelson, J. N. Merokey, J. C. Goad, B. A. Johnson, J. H. Fussell, Hardison and W. B. Greenlaw.

On Friday at 11 o'clock the Ladies' Missionary Society of the Presbytery held a public meeting under the direction of the presbytery officers, viz: Miss Mary Akin, President; Mrs. M. E. Gabard, Secretary; Miss Vera Wilson, Secretary of Literature.

YOUR DREAM REALIZED

When "crop is cribbed" after using

THE TENNESSEE CULTIVATOR.

Why? Because of the distinguishing features, such as

Adjustable Arch, allowing for wide or narrow cultivation.

Longer Gangs, consequently will more easily take the soil.

The Lift Spring, which is one of the most essential features, is so arranged that the tension can be increased or diminished. Only spring, under all conditions, that will assist the driver. Can easily be adjusted to hold Gangs close to rows, (a necessary feature in small corn, or can be adjusted to hold away from corn row).

The Feet are adjustable, wide or narrow, up or down, and

Shovels adjusted to a fraction, in order that they may more easily take the ground—deeper or shallow—as the case may be. Do not have to move Shovels up and down on foot, in order to accomplish your purpose.

The Handles are same as on Double Shovel, but so constructed that they can be moved to any desired position, which is a GREAT FEATURE.

ASSUMING CITIES. FIED WAYS.

Columbia Is Up With the Procession.

When it Comes to Handsome Turnouts, Messrs. Oakes & Nichols Show Their Usual Enterprise.

Columbia is assuming city ways in handsome turnouts, but has never shown the splendid rubber-tired carriages of the larger cities until within the past two weeks when Messrs. Oakes & Nichols, realizing the need of extra handsome carriages for funerals, weddings and parties, purchased two.

They had ready in their stable the handsomest team of black carriage horses in the state, a team which would readily sell at present for $1,000. It was necessary, however, to buy a team for the other carriage and they were fortunate in securing a fine team of Kentucky bays at an outlay of about $500.

The firm had their turnouts out for the Brown-Cecil wedding Wednesday afternoon and have since received unmeasured praise and congratulation. The two turnouts were perfect in appointment and were admired by those who saw them here in town and by people all along their way of travel.

Their owners will use these turnouts for funerals and will hire them for public service at weddings, receptions, parties, etc.

Mr. Jas. F. Lewis Will Leave Columbia.

The firm of Rains & Lewis has dissolved partnership, Mr. Jas. F. Lewis selling out his interest to Mr. Rains, and will leave Saturday for Bessemer, Ala., to make his home in the future. Mr. Lewis has considerable real estate holdings in that city and the city being on another boom he has decided to go there to live. He will become associated in the drug business there with his brother. Mr. Lewis has lived in Columbia for thirteen years, during which time he has made many friends who will regret his departure.
